

As an user of DSL services from an independent Internet Service Provider, I am very concerned that the de-regulation of broadband service would prevent me from providing free services to non-profit organizations. The costs of the services I presently buy would greatly increase as the same services from the phone company are currently much higher. In addition, I would no longer have access to competent technical services.